

Southern California
Public Labor Relations Council

July 2015

Thank you for your continuing support of the Southern California Public Labor Relations Council (SCPLRC). Once again, it's time to renew your agency's membership as it is set to expire July 31, 2015.

As you know, SCPLRC is a non-profit organization comprised of public agencies that share common interests in the labor relations field and are committed to enhancing their individual labor relations functions through a cooperative approach in data gathering, training, mentoring, and legal and legislative reviews. SCPLRC membership entitles participating agencies to:

- Meet jointly with members of other public agencies at free monthly roundtable luncheons to hear guest speakers on opportune labor relations issues and other relevant topics, e.g., %Public Sector Labor Code Exemptions,+ %Understanding AB 2053 . Preventing Abusive Conduct,+ %Affordable Care Act Update,+ %Whistleblowing and Retaliation Protections,+ and %Understanding AB 1522 . Paid Sick Leave.+
- Obtain a directory with SCPLRC member telephone/fax numbers and e-mail addresses.
- Attend free half day workshops.
- Reduced registration fees for the SCPLRC's annual conference.

Your membership is an agency membership that allows you to designate two to four persons to receive the notices of monthly meetings and other relevant information. The information you provide will be included in the directory. Most importantly and of greatest value, your agency membership entitles any employee from your organization to attend SCPLRC events as a %member.+

Please complete the enclosed application form and return it with the invoice, along with a check payable to SCPLRC. Your membership will be valid from August 2015 through July 2016.

Sincerely,

Ernie Hernandez
Director of Membership
